The two historically significant structures operating as the Town Hall and Library required major interior renovation and a new entry structure. CSS's new structure serves as both the ceremonial entry connecting both structures into one complex and a barrier free link to all floors of the existing buildings. The design of the addition had to be sensitive to the architectural styles of two turn-of-the-century buildings and become the focal point for the new entry. The design process was shared as a team effort with the Reading Historical Society and the results are a magnificent new entry and natural link that enhances the buildings and the Town Common.
